WITH INSCRIPTIONS THEREON.

COMPILED BY

Acting Collector, Cuddapah.

"A few white bones upon a lonely sand
A rotting corpse beneath the meadow grass,
That cannot hear the footsteps as they pass,
Memorial urns pressed by some foolish hand
Have been for all the goal of troublous fears,
Ah! breaking hearts and faint eyes dim with tears,
And momentary hope by breezes fanned
To flame that ever fading falls again,
And leaves but blacker night and deeper pain
Have been the mould of life in every land."
